

*MACQUARRIE
ALLAN
HUGH*

It is with great sadness that we announce the passing of Allan Hugh MacQuarrie, Kenloch on Monday, August 8th in Inverness Consolidated Memorial Hospital. Allan was born in Inverness on July 9th, 1948 to John D. and Zena (MacDougall) MacQuarrie.

He will be deeply missed by his son; Troy (Karen), Prospect Bay; his daughters; Tracy (Conrad) MacNeil, Inverness; Aleza MacQuarrie, Keloch; his grandchildren, which he loved with all his heart; Kesler, Alexa, Taylor, Jack, Chase and Cameron; his sisters; Bonnie Jean (Joe) O'Connor, Ann Carmody; his brother Morgan (Marie) MacQuarrie. Besides his parents he was predeceased by his wife Linda (Burton) MacQuarrie.

Allan was a tough, strong, quiet man, but a soft, sensitive person who cared deeply about others. He would often take it upon himself to do what needed to be done to help out family, friends and neighbors. Allan's greatest joy in life was raising his family, with his late wife (of almost fifty years) Linda.

For most of his career, he worked as a heavy machine operator for Carmen Campbell. He was skilled in his ability, and took pride in his work. In his earlier years, he was a valued member of Search and Rescue.

He had a passion for music, especially Irish music. He was often heard reciting song lyrics and encouraging those around him to listen to the words to take in the true meaning of the song. He could also be heard reciting the poem, "The Cremation of Sam McGee" by Robert Service. He loved stand-up and "roasts", especially Noel V. Ginnity.

Dad had a passion for old cars, car racing, and truck-and-tractor pulls. He loved adventure and explored "the road not taken" everywhere he went. He also loved fishing eels by moonlight.

In his later years he became interested in wood-working. This was something he enjoyed and became quite creative. His number one project was making handmade clocks for his family. His six grandchildren, whom he loved with all his heart, each have their own clock made for them with love by their grandfather.

In lieu of flowers, donations in memory of the late Allan MacQuarrie may be made to the Canadian Cancer Society, Central Inverness Palliative Care or a charity of your choice. Funeral Service will be held in Lake Ainslie Presbyterian Church, Sat, August 13, 2022 at 2 pm.
